CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

Seeking writers for the first anthology on trans people and the Internet!

*Trans*_ is the first anthology to collect the voices and experiences of trans people speaking to how the Internet has impacted our lives and how we have impacted the Internet.

Submissions are open to all trans writers, whether this is your first time submitting or you're a published author--we will work with a range of experience. Submissions should be both by trans, transfeminine, transmasculine, non-binary, genderqueer-identified, and/or folks who otherwise identify with a spectrum of gender nonconformity and address experiences of these communities (i.e. We will not consider writing by non-trans people nor writing about the Internet by a trans person that doesn't directly address trans or nonbinary folks).

Please send us a 150 word proposal about your intended contribution We will consider proposals on non-fiction essays, both creative/personal and analytical, as well as relevant blog posts. Non-fiction and poetry will not be considered at this time.

Email submit@transontheinter.net by August 1, 2014 with proposals

We look forward to reading your work!
